Q1: Tell me about yourself?

Hi! I am Sanchi Arora raised in an inspiring city in India. I chose to study Information Technology after I researched how technology can positively change our lives and businesses. In Graduation, I brushed up my coding skills in web development, that's what led me to an exciting opportunity as a team leader in my Last Semester Project, where I managed the team and successfully achieved the project's objective.

Well! I am well organized, a detail-oriented person who always takes responsibility for my actions. Over the university years, I worked hard to improve my technical skills, professional skills, and communication skills. I'm looking forward to expand my skills with such a prestigious company like JP Morgan.

I'm so excited about this opportunity, If I will be selected, I will be a trustworthy, loyal and committed member of your company who will seek to make an immediate and a long – lasting impact in this role.
